- v1      There is no phrase, no sentence to be heard,
           No clever line, no choice or telling word
           That makes this situation less absurd.
- v2      Do nothing,
           There is no deed, no bold compelling act,
           No stunt or caper, tour de force or fact
           That keeps this rather flimsy cause intact.
- Br      And here, within this crumbling sense of worth,
           The plans you thought were poised to win the earth,
           Descend to this, in ridicule and mirth.
- v3      Want nothing,
           There is no wish, no craving to acquire,
           No burning need, no hankering desire
           That makes this foolish failure less entire.
