v1 The sadness of a heartfelt wish,
Where hope has all run through;
Softened by the compromise
Where gentler dreams come true:

ch1 Funny how things turn out sometimes,
Not the way we planned:
Long live the little dreams,
Goodbye the grand.

v2 The sorrow of a love now lost,
A once bright flame now dead;
Tempered by a kinder spark
Of friendship found instead:

ch2 Funny how the small flowers grow
Where tall trees used to stand:
Long live the little dreams,
Farewell the grand.

v3 The boulders of a toppled tower,
In ruins on the ground,
Or in their place the sturdier frame,
Of shelter, strong and sound:

ch3 Funny how the grandest of schemes,
Are seldom for the best:
Long live the simple dreams,
Riddance the rest.
