v1	Wrap your arms around me, And I will hold you tight, Our simple human longings Connected by the night, And driven by the promise That things will be alright, That we will make it through Together
v2	From just beyond the future, To just before the past, From every dark filled outline Of the shadows that we cast, A timeless revelation That what we have can last: There's nothing we can't do Together
Br2	The me that is despite you Seems less than full beside The me that finds these reasons To lie here by your side, With every reason leading To courage magnified: The strength of me and you Together
v3	So put your arms around me, And I will squeeze you tight, We'll keep these human longings Connected here tonight, In certain celebration, Of all we can put right, All we're equal to Together
